Beginner Guide To Wicca

There is so much confusion in this world as a result of religious teachings that Wicca and the world of witchcraft is like a breath of fresh air amidst the pandemonium that is around us in the name of the Divine.

Fortunately, many people are getting tired of the scary, meddlesome ways of life and want to learn more about the way life once was, before the artificial creations of various religions that has destroyed the peace on this beautiful planet.

Wicca is one such religion that is attracting practitioners with lightning speed. Why this attraction to this particular religion? Here are the facts:

1. Wicca is the fastest growing religion in the USA and in many other parts of the world.
2. Wicca does not ask for obeisance to any God or Goddess.
3. Wicca asks each practitioner to look inward for Divinity, not outward.
4. Wicca has only one rule - do not harm anyone in any way.

People all over the world are attracted to Wicca because it accepts all humans as equal. We don't have to worry about Satan or hell or heaven and can draw the face or body of our favorite God or Goddess without worrying about retribution from a clergy or any monolithic organization.

Wicca is easy to learn because it is the most innate, inherent form of divinity that we were born with. We don't have to go and bow down to anyone to know that we are equal in powers. No priest, no clergy and no mullahs to tell us what to do, when to do it and how to do it.

People, regardless of age, race, color, height, weight, sexual orientation (or any other category that people come up with) can join this religion. There is no worry about reincarnating as a dreaded species (that is supposed to be "lower" than us) as a punishment for our next life.

Overall, Wicca is freedom; freedom to choose the way we live and the way we interact with others. It also allows freedom to think for ourselves and not be bound by archaic rules and regulations that should have been thrown out a millennium ago.

Wicca is every person's religion. No outcasts, no sin, no purgatory. No Gods dying for us, no gods avenging our deaths and no gods watching over us to find our mistakes and punish us.

Unlike other religions, Wicca does not assume that human beings are somehow more important than other living things on Earth. By the way, Wicca is not narrow minded enough to think that there are living beings only on this lonely planet. Wicca knows that there are many seen and unseen worlds around us. Just because we cannot see a lot of things it doesn't mean that they don't exist. Just because we can only see a few dimensions, it doesn't mean that other dimensions do not exist.

Above all, Wicca focuses on the spirit of each and every being, animate and inanimate and realizes that all of us spring from the same source and return to the same source. We are also aware that we receive exactly what we put into the Universe. Give joy and receive three-fold joy or give sorrow and receive three times as much unhappiness in life.

Wicca is a celebration of nature from which we all evolved. It is important for many practitioners to celebrate the seasons and movements of the sun and the moon. By celebrating the goodness and uniqueness in all us and moving forward together without any discrimination, Wicca makes us aware of the Divine within all of us.
