The Best Places To Get Free Online Spells - Trusted Sources

The internet is a haven for people who need information. When the internet was created over 40 years ago, initially it was very difficult to find anything at all. With the advent of Google and other so called "Search Engines", there is nothing that is hidden from our eyes. Anyone, anywhere in the world can Google to help them find information.

With the amazing information base on the internet came the alarming number of websites that crop up and disappear everyday. Some have been around for years while others stick around for a short while and then give us the dreaded "not found" message.

Another problem is the possibility of trickery and treachery on the internet. Credit card companies made it easier to use credit cards online and the most of us got used to typing in the number of our credit cards directly into the hands of crooks and con artists.

How do we know which websites to trust? First of all, check the top of the website for the address. You will see a long line that starts with http:<other stuff>. If the line starts with https:<other stuff>, then it's a secure site.

Also, if you see a padlock or unbroken key at the bottom of your web browser (Internet explorer, Firefox, etc.) then you know that the site is safe. People can still get your credit card numbers by reading through the bits and bytes that pass from your computer to the outside world.

If you are searching for spells and suddenly a lot of windows pop up, avoid that site. It is easier to download the Google pop-up blocker and have strong anti-virus software from <http://www.avast.com/>. Get the free home edition and install it on your computer before surfing. This will help your computer stay protected from viruses or other maliciousware.

One word of caution before you begin surfing: It is much more effective to write your own spells. Your heartfelt wishes, your yearning or your desires will rarely be matched by any spells that you can get online. Although some people believe that the spell has to rhyme to be effective, nothing is further from the truth. The words that come to your mind, whether it is in the form of a conversation or a letter to someone else, will provide the best incentive for the creation of your personal dreams.

Some of the sites that I usually visit for free and safe spells are:

<http://freespellsonline.com> - This site has hundreds of spells (819 today to be exact) including love spells, protection spells, money spells, beauty spells, prosperity, healing, fertility. Some of the special spells on this site are astral travel spells, business spells, divination spells, house spells, invisibility spells, levitation spells, pet spells, poppet spells, scrying spells, weight loss spells and zodiac spells. The uniqueness of this site is that the spells are rated by the readers.

<http://www.everythingunderthemoon.net>. This is another site which has a lot of interesting spells. Examples of spells on this site include wish magick, angel spell, strega herb jar spell, witches bottle, spell to protect an object, spells to ward off psychic vampires, spell to banish a stalker, protection spells against dream invaders, Evil eye spell, anti-nightmare spell, spell to contact the dead, etc.

<http://www.luckymojo.com/spells.html> This web site has an extensive collection of very old spells. They are divided into the following categories: Magick spell basics, White magick, Red Magick, Green Magick, Purple Magick and Black magick. This site also has a collection of USENET Newsgroup FAQs on Occult, Magical and Religious subjects <http://www.luckymojo.com/faqs.html>
